JIGGS

BAY gelding, 14:2, foaled about 1914, and purchased in 1922. This horse was apparently a full-bred Morgan, having the head, shoulders, and body typical of that breed. While his lack of height and Morgan conformation unsuited him for saddle classes, he nevertheless placed several times in local shows. Although generally used as a hack, he was quite willing to do anything from polo and jumping to pulling a Whitechapel tandem cart.

RUTH BEST

BAY mare, 15:1, foaled about 1916, and purchased in June, 1923. She was bred by the Longview Farm, Lee's Summit, Missouri, and was by Kentucky's Best out of Ruth Rollins.

Possessed of an unusually beautiful head, perfectly marked, in two years of showing she placed consistently in local gatherings and put several firsts to her credit. She was shown in harness (combination) as well as under saddle, and was an excellent park horse.

MAY ALLISON

MAY ALLISON

CHESTNUT mare, 15:3, foaled in 1920 and purchased in the fall of 1924. May Allison was bred by S. E. Terry of Cave City, Kentucky, and sold by Roger Pember-ton of Chicago. Registered with the American Saddle Horse Breeders Association, No. 14674, she was by Lyon Artist (1925) out of Lena Williamson (14673).

While not of championship quality, which is rarely attainable in horses that are hacked, she was nevertheless a consistent winner. During 1925 at four state fairs, the Lake Forest and Fort Sheridan horse shows, and in Chicago, she was in the ribbons some twenty-five times, earning cash awards totalling over seven hundred dollars. In this season, she was never out of a stake, placing in four $500 events and in two $1,000 events, and in companies that included Bohemian Actress, Exciter, and Nancy Highland.

MISS MUFFETT

MISS MUFFETT

CHESTNUT mare, 12:2, foaled in 1912, and purchased in June, 1925. Practically undefeated in Welsh pony classes was this brilliant little mare. Beginning her career early in life, she won her first blue at the Kentucky State Fair jointly with her dam in a class for pony mares with foal. She was soon brought north and in 1925 won all her classes at the South Shore Country Club Horse Show and thenceforward continued on a successful course. Except on those certain occasions when her natural spirit of exuberance superseded her good manners, she was invariably in the blues.

ENCHANTER

CHESTNUT gelding, 15:3, foaled in 1922, in Kentucky, and purchased in November, 1926, from Roger Pemberton of Chicago. This horse was particularly noted for his slow canter and gentle manners, and called forth favorable comment on these qualities from numerous judges. He has been exhibited at twelve horse shows and has won seventeen firsts, three seconds, two thirds, and three fourths, fifteen trophies, and several hundred dollars in cash. Between shows he has been hacked daily in a ring, in the park, or over country roads.
